This year marks the 40th anniversary of the Declaration of Alma-Ata on primary health care (PHC). A seminal milestone establishing health as a fundamental human right and calling for urgent action to develop PHC to achieve health for all.

The Government of Kazakhstan, WHO, and UNICEF will be co-hosting the Global Conference on Primary Health Care in Astana, Kazakhstan this October 2018. A new Declaration on PHC is being developed with all Member States and key stakeholders to be brought forth at the global conference. These plans provide an opportunity to:

- Reaffirm the principles of the original Alma-Ata Declaration
- Renew the global commitment on PHC to achieve universal health coverage (UHC) and the SDGs
- Develop an implementable way forward together to achieve health for all

Please join us for an interactive discussion on the global agenda to strengthen PHC to achieve UHC.
