REVISED EDITION INCORPORATING RESULTS OF FIELD-TESTING

World Health Organization UNODC
Defend Human Rights

- Arbitrary Deprivations of Liberty and Denial of Due Process
- Compulsory drug treatment
- Abuses in confinement such as physical and mental abuse, forced non-evidence-based treatment, torture or forced labor
- Access to opioid substitution therapy
- ...
Integral and person-centered

Complexity - social determinants. It makes no sense to ONLY work the problematic consumption of substances.

Intersectional approach

Programs should adapt to people’s needs, not otherwise: Offer a wide variety of treatment modalities, interventions and programs.
Eliminating barriers to treatment

- Stigma
- Criminalization of drug use
- Not tailored to specific needs of women and population groups
- Rights of children whose parents use drugs
Continuum of care

Coordination

Do not work in silos

Include recovery and social reintegration in the agenda
